Attention – Important update procedure version 6.1

Due to a invalid software backup file since version 5.9x you need to update your console in certain way.

Please update to version 6.1 via onPC and repeat this once. After updating your console twice with the same version you created a new backup file. If wanted you can always install older software via the corresponding onPC version. Anyway – from view of memory usage and performance – it is recommended to clean up older software-versions and shows in the utility menu from time to time and keep only 2-3 most recent or most important versions.

The problem with the invalid backup file only occurs if you try to "down-date" your console or if you try to update from console to console.

If there are any questions left do not hesitate to contact your local dealer or our tech-support.
